

The background image is a grayscale photograph of an industrial water treatment facility. It shows large, cylindrical metal tanks, complex piping systems with various valves and flanges, and a metal walkway with railings. The scene is brightly lit, creating strong highlights and shadows on the metallic surfaces.

EHS is the global distribution company of the German company TETRADOM GmbH. TETRADOM GmbH is the production and sales partner of WELLAN GmbH. The main products include the quantum ring invented by Mr. Klaus Wagner, the founder of Wellan GmbH, and the new quantum products developed by Tetradom GmbH based on this technology.

What is Wellan's quantum water treatment technology?

Wellan's unique water treatment technology is a practical example of quantum physics. Its core is programmed according to a unique customized oscillation frequency and uses unique laser recording input technology to set this special ultra-fine oscillation by interacting with a dielectric material made of a special alloy based on silicon and aluminum. Recorded on dielectric material. The dielectric material conducts pre-recorded ultra-fine vibration waves to the medium (such as water, oil), causing it to generate micro-resonance. Then, through the vibration of the medium, the amplitude of the material waves of various inorganic and organic substances around it is changed, thereby changing the bonding form between its molecules. It shows that the structural lime scale becomes loose, the oxidized rust decomposes and falls off, and the bacterial and algae life substances are reduced.

What are the advantages?

- No need for electricity, save energy
- After one empowerment, there are no other consumables
- No emission , no pollution
- No maintenance required
- Effective in 1-2 months, removing old scales
- Economical, no special equipment or personal care required
- Sustainable guaranteed for 3 years, effective for 10 years
